

Shanna Babalonis, PhD

Institute of Primary Health Care (BIHAM), Head of the Substance use Unit, University of Bern, Switzerland

Shanna Babalonis, Ph.D. is an Associate Professor in the College of Medicine at the University of Kentucky and the Director of the university's Cannabis Center. Her current work includes randomized clinical trials determining the risk/benefit profile of oral cannabis in two patient populations - patients with cancer and patients with metabolic conditions. Her current laboratory work examines the abuse liability and therapeutic potential of opioid/cannabis interactions in individuals with opioid use disorder.

Website:

